Education Chair's Letter

Welcome to a new chapter following the successful IAP 2026 meeting in Fukuoka. The congress provided a valuable opportunity to reconnect with friends and professional colleagues, explore recent advances in pathology, and refresh our collective commitment to the discipline. We also hope there was time to explore the wonderful scenic views and gentle culture around this city.

Looking ahead, the Education Committee and the Social Media Subcommittee, under the guidance of Prof. Raul Gonzalez, have an ambitious programme of activities planned. We will be bringing regular updates from our global divisions and hope to introduce to our global membership – the leadership behind these divisional initiatives. We warmly encourage members to share news, achievements of their respective divisions with us. Please do send us your submissions so that they can be featured in future communications.

Letter from the Education Chair

Incoming Officers & VPs

Welcome New Divisions

A major focus for the coming years will be the development of outreach activities designed to make the IAP an even stronger presence in the daily professional lives of pathologists. Through masterclasses, mentoring programmes, educational updates, and other initiatives, we hope to strengthen engagement and provide meaningful support to our members worldwide.

We are also pleased to highlight the IAP Ambassador Programme, a longstanding initiative dedicated to supporting pathology communities in underserved areas. We extend our sincere thanks to everyone who has volunteered. Please continue to indicate your interest . Although practical limitations mean that not every volunteer can be appointed as an ambassador in the near term, we are committed to involving you in future consultations and planning discussions. Your local knowledge and understanding of the needs of your country and division are essential to ensuring our programmes are relevant, effective, and impactful.

Welcoming New Divisions

Please join us in welcoming the two newest members of the IAP. The IAP International Council has officially accepted the applications of the Bangladesh Division and the Cambodia Divisions, which expands the Academy's reach in South and Southeast Asia. Their admission reflects the dedication of pathologists in both countries to advancing the practice and education of pathology, and we congratulate everyone whose work made it possible. We look forward to collaborating with our new colleagues, sharing knowledge across borders, and seeing their contributions to the global pathology community grow. Welcome, Bangladesh and Cambodia!

Divisions, Take Advantage of IAP's Discounted Rate

Through their membership in the worldwide IAP community, IAP Division members can subscribe to USCAP's two leading online journals, Laboratory Investigation and Modern Pathology, at the USCAP member rate of USD $75 per year for both. The non-member rate is $175. The offer is open to every IAP Division member.

To confirm that subscribers are members in good standing, Divisions must submit subscriptions and collect payments on their members' behalf. (If you are an individual, do not email directly). First, Divisions email their list of subscribers to Teresa Powers, USCAP Member Services Manager, at teresa@uscap.org, copying the IAP Secretary at secretary@iapcentral.org to validate the list. USCAP then sends an invoice, and payment is made directly to USCAP by the Division.

Only Divisions in good standing are eligible, and requests must be submitted by 30 November. Individuals must not attempt to purchase; all purchases must go through Divisions.
